The Waterworks Trouble.

The suit of Marshal Field against the City Waterworks company, an account of which was published in Thursday night's BEE, has stirred up a hornets nest. Interesting and sensational developments promise to come out of the affair before it is settled. The men who are interested with Mr. Field in bringing the suit, insist upon it that their allegations of fraud are true, while Messrs. Rogers, Dumont, Johnson and Morse, are equally positive that the charges are trumped up.

Mr. S. R. Johnson, one of the old directors of the company, was interviewed yesterday by a reporter for the BEE. In reply to a question, he said:

"The story about myself, Rogers, Dumont and Morse entering into an agreement with Marshal Field to control the interest in the old company, by holding the biggest share of the stock, is all nonsense. There was no agreement on our part that no man was to sell without getting the consent of the others. In fact, I have a letter from Marshal Field to show that he would not consent to any such arrangement, as he declared that he did not want to have any stock on hand that he could not sell whenever he wanted to."

"How about the story that you sold the stock to him under false representa-"It's a malicious lie," replied Mr. Johnson, "the stock was sold to him in a manner fair, square and above board." "The petition charges that the larger stockholders conducted the affairs so as to freeze out the smaller stockholders and depreciate the value of their stock?"

"That is false, too. The affairs of the company were conducted in such a way that those smaller stockholders should receive just as much benefit proportionately as the larger ones. The story that the preferred stock was sold to pay off a debt of the new company to myself, Rogers and Dumont is not true. This money was raised to make improvement which the company badly needed."

"this trouble has originated from a man who is a sorehead, C. W. Hamilton, of the U. S. National bank. Just to show you that this man has tried to injure the company, in its progressive moves, let me tell you of a trick he played not long ago. This story I got from Mr. Underwood, and I don't want you to print it as coming from me. You see, some time ago the new waterworks company was negotiating the loan of some money on its stock. It had just about succeeded in getting all the money it wanted in Boston, when an advertisement appeared in the Boston Advertiser stating that some one in Omaha has some waterworks stock to sell at par. This knocked the negotiations in the head and the money had to be secured at 5 per cent. No name was affixed to the advertisement, but the number of the advertiser's post office box was given. The matters were traced down and it was found that the post office box was that of Mr. Hamilton. He is the man, I be-lieve who is mainly instigating this suit." Secretary Wylie, of the Waterworks company was also seen. In reply to a question, he said.
"Of course, we shall obey the mandates of the court. This injunction suit will prevent us temporarily at least from going ahead with our improvements at Florence. After the injunction is disposed of, if the result is in our favor, we shall go ahead with our improvements. We are doing some work within the city which this suit will not affect."

"How about the statements made in Field's petition."

"They are pretty nearly false from be-ginning to end. The sale of that pre-ferred stock was not made for the benefit of any of the old or new stockholders, but simply to raise money for the new system of waterworks we propose to es-tablish at Florence. The truth is that Hamilton, Creighton, and some of the smaller stockholders are doing everysmaller stockholders are doing everything under God's heaven to prevent the company from making improvements. The story that these minor stockholders were not given any opportunity to be present and vote on the improvements, is false. We even went so far as to admit to our meetings Mr. Kountze as a representative of Mr. Creighton, though he had no proxy."

"How about the lease of the company

Creighton, though he had no proxy."

"How about the lease of the company to the American Water company?"

"Well, the lease has been made for seventeen years, and the full terms of the contract will appear when we file our answer in court. We still retain our property, and simply mortgage a portion of our earnings for the next seventeen years, in order to raise money to make these improvements. Mind you, we are not watering our stock—we are not increasing our revenue—we -we are not increasing our revenue-we are not managing the affairs of the company in the interest of any one clique. We are trying to raise money to make improvements in our system for the benefit of the people of Omana. No, sir, it is not true that either Mr. Underwood or myself are either directly or indirectly connected with the American Water company, to which this seventeeen year lease has been made."

OMAHA AND PLATTSMOUTH. How the Two Cities Will be United by a New Rallway.

It developes that the Omaha Motor railway company, which is now laying its tracks on Twenty-fourth street and Leavenworth, is being built for no other purpose than the operation of a line between this city and Plattsmouth, twenty miles distant. A reporter who received an inkling of the scheme yesterday, met and interviewed Dr. S. D. Mercer, one of the directors of the company, about the matter. He said that the company proposed to extend its line to Plattsmouth, and would possibly have it in operation before fall, as a large force of men were engaged in laying track. The company, he said already had its line built from Wal-nut Hill to California street and was now engaged in fitting in the intermediate gap. From Vinton street to F street, the north line of South Omaha, track had been laid. Before passing through South Omaha, the company would have to meet an injunction, which had been served against it by the city council of that burg. It seems that the company procured its right of way privileges from procured its right of way privileges from the county commissioners, whereas the council of South Omaha thought that the grant should have been obtained from

The company already has a continuous right of way to Sarpy county. A quiet skirmish is being made now for a right of way through Sarpy and Cass counties. A bridge will be built over the Platte river, which will probably be operated solely in the interests of the Omaha & Plattsmouth

Motor railway.

Note: Mercer said that the new line would run through a tract of 1,100 acres near the city of Plattsmouth which had been purchased by an Omaha syndicate.

The line would then connect with the new street railway which is to be built in Plattsmouth. Trains will be run between the two cities every hour. The Buldwin Noiseless Steam moter will be used.

SWIFT'S BIG SCHEME. What Chicago's Great Packer Has

Mr. G. F. Swift, the Great Chicago oacker arrived in the city yesterday morning with his assistants and architects, Messrs, E. Welles, S. Vankirk and H. C.Gardner. He came here to look over the ground at South Omaha preparatory to erecting his large slaughter and packing house. He went early in the day to South Omaha, and spent several hours there, "surveying the situation," in company with stock-yard officials.

Mr. Swift was met at the Paxton by a Bee reporter, who had a short and pleasant interview with him about his proposed business.

"I have about thirteen acres at South Omaha," said Mr. Swift, in reply to a question, "and on that I propose to erect a large system of slaughter and packing houses. There will be several buildings. First a building for slaughtering and packing sheep and cattle, a building for rendering, a building for oil, another one for a tank house, and another one for preparing fertilizers. Altogether there will be five or six large buildings." "What will be the capacity of the es tablishment." "Probably about 700 or 800 cattle a day and as many sheep as we want to kill. The cost? It will probably be in the neighborhood of $300,000 before we get through.

"When do you expect to commence work on the building?"

"Inside of twenty days at the farthest. I expect to have everything in running order by October 1. In addition to the the other features, I expect to have a system of car repair shops."

tem of car repair shops."

In reply to further questioning Mr.

Swift said that as the plans had not yet been minutely determined upon, he could not give the details of the structures which he proposed to erect. South Omaha, he said, had a good stock mar-ket, which might one day equal that of Kansas City.

DIED ON HIS KNEES.

Hans Nelson Avoids a Few Creditors

by Strangulation. Yesterday morning about 9:30 o'clock the body of Hans Nelson was found in the cellar of his grocery store, 812 North Sixteenth street. It was on its knees, the chin resting on the edge of a barrel. The noose of a small cord was fastened around the neck, and this was broken off, a piece of which still hung from the ceiling. Death had ensued, apparently from strangulation.

Early in the morning Nelson said to his partner, Chris Peterson, that they would be compelled to fail, because they could not meet their debts. The amount which they had to make good, which was not available, was about three hundred dollars. Peterson said that if they had to fail, they couldn't help it, and there was no reason to complain about it. Nelson then took the wagon, went out and brought in some orders, and when next seen, which was by a clerk named Jacob Jansen, he was in the condition above described. Coroner Drexel empanelled a jury and the verdict returned was that Nelson had come to his death from hanging while laboring under temporary aberration of mind.

The remains are now in the room of the deceased over his store. They will be buried Sunday afternoon by the Dan-

THE LIGHTNING'S PLAY. It Invades a Big Barn, Kills Five

Horses and Blinds Two. In the midst of the heavy rain storm which prevailed Thursday night lightning struck the big horse and car barn of the street railway company at Twenty-fourth and Lake streets. Five horses were instantly killed and two blinded. Though there were quite a number of men in the stableat the time, very fortunately no one was injured. The lightning struck on the north part of the barn, and beyond tearing off a few shingles, did not hurt the structure to speak of. The total loss to the company will be about $890. The two horses which were struck blind were not injured otherwise, and will be fairly companied.

Thomas O'Connor, the veteran citizen and office holder in this community, has received information that his brother Luke, a distinguished officer in the service of England, has been retired with the rank of major general. Luke O'Connor was offered the governor generalship of Canada at one time, but refused it, pre-ferring to be on active service. In speak-ing of him the London Times says:

"It is announced that the next Bath Gazette will include that gallant soldier, Luke O'Connor, who when sergeant at Alma, was one of the first recipients of the Victoria cross. He has recently retired from the service with the rank of major general."

Eleventh Street Viaduct. The Eleventh street viaduct is to have two electric lights, one over the first railroad tracks and the other on the north end of the truss. The viaduet will not be open for a couple of weeks because it has been decided to construct a rail between the roadway and sidewalks to prevent accidents to pedestrians from frightened teams. This rail was not contemplated in the original plan. Some of it is already in place, while the rest has been delayed on the road. Mr. House, however, has decided not to open the bridge to the public until this safe guard has been constructed.

A Well Known Man Gone. Bernard Farrel, a resident of this city or fifteen years, during the greater part of which time he was check clerk for the Union Pacific, died Thursday night at 8:30 clock at his residence 1220 South Fourteenth street. He was a member of Assembly 2123 K. of L., and widely and favorably known throughout the city. He will be buried to-morrow in Holy Sepulchre cemetery. Suing a Railroad.

The suit of Charles Conoyer vs. the Union Pacific is still in progress before Judge Dundy, of the United States court. The plaintiff sues for $20,000 damages, on account of injuries sustained by his son, who was run over by a train.

Judge Berka disposed of a trivial busi. ness in police court yesterday morning. Ed. Connell and Frank Hisser, who had de coyed J. E. Stray Leaves From Reportorial Note Books.

Professor Palmer, the Omaha mind reader, is fast becoming expert in his work. Yesterday he gave an exhibition before Messrs. Engle, Russell and Officer Pulaski. The latter wrote a word in German and then Palmer taking Pulaski's hand retraced the word exactly as the officer had written. He was of course blindfolded when he did this. This test was especially wonderful as Palmer can neither speak, read nor write the German language.

"The good sense displayed by most of our workmen who are now engaged and who have refused to take part in a general strike, is to be commended," said a merchant yesterday. "I know that at-tempts have been made to stop business here, and I know also that it has been ione in some cases by men who have not got one dollar's interest in this city. is too much to expect that Omaha should be injured because of such people, and I think our mechanics deserve credit in deciding to attend to their own busi-

The "Odds and Ends" man is in possession of the details of a salacious sen-sation which concerns two young people sation which concerns two young people of this city, one of whom at least is well known. He is a young man—a dry goods clerk—and something of a dude. He was rather smitten with a young lady who lives near Hanscom park, and she—well—she rather reciprocated. But it's all over now. The other night he called up by telephone a woman in a house of rather questionable repute. He got the correct number, as he supposed, and a feminine voice, which he presumed to be that of the girl he wanted, an-swered him. He invited her to go out to the Road house with him that night, and as she didn't seem to accept his invitation cheerfully, he fired a vol-ley of language at her which will hardly bear reproducing in cold print. This ends chapter I.

Chapter II is very brief. The tele phone operator had given the young man a wrong number and he had been talking with the young lady of his adoration, whose father happened to have a tele-phone at his residence. But they don't speak now either by telephone or otherwise. And it was all the operator's fault.

The Merchants' Corner-Stone. Workmen are now engaged in laying the first course over the basement, of the rich brown stone which is to form the main floor of the Merchants' National bank building. It has a dull red appearance and is brought here from Long Meadow, Mass. The corner-stone of the bank was laid yesterday without ceremony, and this morning a workman was engaged cutting the hole in which is to be placed the iron box which is to contain souvenirs of the time and circum stance. The box will be six inches wide six inches long and nine inches deep.

ACCOMPLISHED

Ever since our opening here we have labored under great disadvantage on account of our store being too crowded. We were heretofore not able to get such a large place as we desired, and not only were we prevented from keeping the stock we intended, but we could not even properly display the assortment we did carry.

We have at last succeeded in securing additional room and have leased the two floors above as also the rear part adjoining our store on 14th street. This, in addition to our present salesroom, will make us the largest clothing house in the west.

The necessary alterations will crowd us fearfully, and this as well as the desire to open the enlarged quarters with entirely fresh goods prompts us in making a SPECIAL SALE, at which we will offer extraordinary bargains.

We are Now Marking down our Stock throughout at such prices that it will make a stir in the clothing trade, and will move our goods quickly.

All goods marked in plain figures and at one price.
